WILSON AND MARSHALL TO LEAD

Both Unanimously
Renominated.

NAMED BY WESCOTT

Made Powerful Speech in Praise of President.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM IN HALL

Before adopting a platform the Democratic national convention in St. Louis unanimously nominated Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, for president of the United States and Thomas R. Marshall, of Indiana, for vice president.

Judge John W. Wescott, of Haddonfield, N. J., who made the speech nominating President Wilson in Baltimore, four years ago, performed the same service in a speech of remarkable power.

Following Wilson's nomination, John W. Kern presented to the convention the name of Thomas R. Marshall for vice president.

Vance C. McCormick, of Harrisburg, head of the victorious Democratic reorganization movement in Pennsylvania, was announced as the choice of President Wilson and the Democratic national committee, for the most important post of chairman of the committee.

The convention during the session registered its approval of President Wilson's conduct of foreign affairs which has kept the country at peace with one demonstration after another. When Senator Ollie James, of Kentucky, as permanent chairman, recounted the diplomatic achievements of the president in the negotiations with Germany, the convention launched into an eighteen-minute uproar of cheering, clapping and waving of flags, in which former Secretary of State William J. Bryan, from his seat in the press section, joined.

William A. Glasgow, of Philadelphia, chairman of the committee on rules, smashed the silly conspiracy of St. Louis politicians, hotelkeepers and brewers to keep the convention at work until Saturday night.

Mr. Glasgow's chief contention was that it would be impossible to hold the delegates and that it would be poor politics to make the nominations with empty seats. The New York delegation, he said, would leave for home, regardless of when the nominations were made.

A. Mitchell Palmer, of Stroudsburg, Pa., apparently has won his fight against Senator Stone to insert in the platform a plank declaring against the elevation of the supreme court justices to the presidency.

The Pennsylvania delegation, acting in caucus as a unit, killed the candidacy of Roger Sullivan, the Chicago leader for vice president.

Little Delaware, stirred to action by the prominence of her neighbors, flattered into the spotlight one hour and a minute when Senator Salisbury suggested the president be invited to come to St. Louis, arriving Saturday, for the purpose of accepting in person before the convention. The suggestion was so palpably in the interest of the hotelkeepers and brewers, that it was hurled down in the state court as not brought up in the convention.

When the roll was called for new nations for president, Alabama voted for New Jersey and New Jersey for New Jersey, and the platform to nominate President Wilson and a storm of applause.

At the conclusion of Judge Wescott's speech the delegates and the thousands of spectators in the galleries leaped to their feet and cheered wildly. Hats were tossed and thousands of flags waved over the halls of the delegates below. With the band playing patriotic airs and in the storm of cheers the delegates left by the door from New Jersey began marching through the aisles. They were quickly joined by other delegations and pandemonium reigned. After an hour's demonstration Chairman James began rapping for order, assisted by the sergeant-at-arms.

The vote for Mr. Wilson was unanimous and the nomination for vice president was made and the scene of enthusiasm was repeated in a milder form.

When the convention convened on Friday a platform was adopted after a spirited debate of three hours and the convention adjourned sine die.

The Platform.

The supreme issue of today in American politics and American life is the "assertion and triumphant demonstration of the indivisible and coherent strength of the nation," according to the platform. Stripped of the verbiage, the declaration means plain Americanism, or anti-hyphenism, and the platform mingles no words in its ringing call for the support of this principle.

The anti-hyphen plank condemns all such head-on attacks as a disordered march. Take Chamberlain's Tablet and correct that and the headaches will disappear. For sale by all dealers.

WOODROW WILSON

Renominated by the Democrats

group activity tending to weaken the diplomatic strength of the nation or to cripple its industries in favor of some foreign country as subversive. All alliances and combinations, political or otherwise, created or utilized for such purpose are likewise sweepingly assailed.

A limited number of such conspiracies against the United States government in its foreign relations and against the industrial establishments of the country actually have existed, the platform blandly charges.

Reaching its climax, the Americanism plank rises to the condemnation of any political party in America which surrenders its integrity or modifies its policies in exchange for the volitional strength possessed by any such un-American element.

United States troops must remain in Mexico, the platform declares, until the restoration of law and order therein has made impossible the repetition of bandit raids into this country and other outrages. In the draft of the plank concerning Mexico was the sentence, "We court their good will and seek not to despoil them," but this did not appear in the revised text. Why it was stricken out is only a matter of conjecture outside of the committee.

Intervention, it is declared, is revolting to the American people, notwithstanding the great provocation in connection with the Mexican policy Democratic adherence to the Monroe doctrine is resorted.

The European war is the inspiration for another pregnant declaration while the Democratic party has followed the paths of neutrality, it is set forth that new conditions have made it necessary for the nation to safeguard its interest abroad and in the interests of humanity to assist the world in securing settled peace and justice. In this connection a significant passage promulgates the belief that every people has the right to choose the sovereignty under which they shall live and that the small states of the world must have their rights respected.

The time has come, it is declared for the United States to join with the other peoples of the world in any feasible association that will serve such principles and maintain inviolate the security of the highway of the seas for the common and unobstructed use of all the nations. These principles bearing as they do on contentions held forth by both sets of belligerents across the water, are considered conspicuous for their neutral spirit.

Concerning preparedness that plank declares for an army fully adequate to the requirements of order and safety and the nation's rights, adequate sea and air defense and the maintenance of a reserve of citizens trained to arms, together with a fixed policy for the development of a navy worthy to uphold the traditions of the United States as well as equal to the international tasks of the nation.

The achievements of the Democratic party under Mr. Wilson's administration are pointed out. The new currency laws, the federal trade commission, tariff adjustment, labor laws, the advance in the postal system and other reforms and accomplishments are described with some detail.

Of the constructive legislation contemplated by the party is named the proposed non-partisan tariff commission, which, it is admitted, is made necessary by the varied and far-reaching economic changes to be expected throughout the world, chiefly as the result of the war. This is the "anti-dumping" clause which has been the subject of considerable discussion. The pending shipping bill and all other legislation such as may be necessary to restore the American flag to the sea is heartily endorsed.

MAY STRIKE WHEN NOTE GOES

War and Navy Officials Cancel
Vacation Plans.

MEXICAN SITUATION CRITICAL

It is Reported U. S. Government is Prepared for Intervention—Other Powers Offer Services.

Administration officials expressed a fear that the receipt in Mexico City of President Wilson's note refusing to withdraw United States troops, will be the signal for an open break between General Carranza and the American government.

With the growth of this feeling it was learned that high officials of the state, war and navy departments are postponing vacation plans and preparing themselves for a summer in Washington.

Reports have been coming to officials for several weeks that General Alvaro Obregon, Carranza's minister of war, was personally responsible for the last note. It was said he feared the de facto government to send its "insulting" clauses, hoping to cause a refusal to its demands and to use the resulting state of affairs as a lever by which to pry Carranza from his seat as titular head of the Mexican government.

A report that is widespread and quite generally believed, is that the administration is prepared for intervention in Mexico as the only apparent escape from the present tangle. President Wilson and Secretary Lansing put the final touches to the note, which will reject Carranza's demand for withdrawal.

"We had no choice," an administration official declared. "Carranza has done nothing but obstruct our effort to clean out the landlards, and to annul with insolent reflections on the president's Mexican policy. In the face of the most recent note, withdrawal is impossible."

Other rumors current are that several other powers have urged their friendly offices to solve the Mexican situation. The diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, Brazil, Honduras and Costa Rica all conferred with Secretary Lansing.

MEXICANS WARN PERSHING

Move by U. S. Troops Signal for Attack by Carranzistas.

General Jacinto Trevino, commanding the Carranza army of the north, advised General J. J. Pershing, American expeditionary commander, that any movement of American troops from their present lines to the south, east or west, would be considered a hostile act and a signal to commence warfare.

General Trevino acted upon specific instructions from Carranza.

Four thousand men of the Durango division of the Carranza army, under General Domingo Arrieta, have arrived at Cucho, about sixty miles southeast of Chihuahua, to reinforce General Maldonado, according to reports.

MCCORMICK TO RUN CAMPAIGN

Harrisburg Man Selected by President for National Chairman.

Vance McCormick, of Pennsylvania, has been selected by President Wilson to succeed William F. McCombs as chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Administration leaders in St. Louis were notified by the president.

It is believed that Mr. McCormick will be able to solidify the party and harmonize different elements. The president looks upon him as progressive and thoroughly in harmony with his ideas in the coming campaign. The Democratic national committee elects its chairman, but there is no doubt the president's choice will be formally ratified.

Mr. McCormick announced several weeks ago that he would not undertake the direction of the campaign this year, and party leaders have been awaiting with keen interest the president's selection of a man for the task.

DONALD M'LEAN ARRESTED

Larceny Charge Against Husband of Late D. A. R. Leader.

Donald M'Lean, formerly an attorney of New York city, and husband of the late past president of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was arrested by Brueker, chief of police in Frederick, Md., at the instance of a New York detective bureau. He is charged with larcenies amounting to $8000. He was released for a hearing under $2000 bond.

Reach Eight-Hour Agreement.

Three thousand miners of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, at Pottsville, Pa., were directed to return to work. It is believed the numerous strikes in the lower anthracite region will be called off as a result of the company and the miners' leaders reaching an understanding on the interpretation of the eight-hour work-day clause.

HYPHEN MUST GO, SAYS PRESIDENT

Accuses Some Foreign Born of Blackmail Game.

MUST STOP, HE DECLARES

Mr. Wilson Says They Are Trying to Work it on Political Parties in Alien Countries' Interest.

In a Flag day speech in Washington, President Wilson charged that there were some foreign-born persons in the United States who were trying to levy a kind of political blackmail on the American political parties in the interest of foreign governments.

This, the president declared, must be stopped. He was sounding what some of his advisers said would be one of the issues of the coming presidential campaign.

Speaking of disloyalty in the United States, the president said: "It proceeds from a minority, a very small minority, but an active and subtle minority, working underground but also showing its ugly head where it may be seen, and it is this minority that at this very moment is striving to levy a kind of political blackmail or break its vengeance at the polls."

"That is the sort of thing against which the American people will turn. That is the lesson which I come to remind you of today."

"There are some men doing their best to undermine the government of the United States in the interest of that which is foreign to us," he said. "There is disloyal activity in the United States and it must be absolutely crushed out."

"You know we have derived our citizenship from every country of the world. It is, therefore, not singular that sentiment in this country should be disturbed by what is going on across the water. But while our sentiments may be disturbed our loyalty to the United States ought never to be disturbed. I want to be scrupulously just in assessing the circumstances which have brought about a division of sentiment in this country and I believe that a great majority of those whose lineage comes from the nations at war are just as loyal as native Americans."

The president took a run at the criticism of his foreign policy by saying that sentiment about the flag must be backed up by a lion.

"I need not remind you," he said, "how much sentiment has been poured out on our flag. There was a day when all that was necessary was to put our sentiments into poetic words. This is not a day of sentiment. Sentiment is all right, but it does not profit to the best service of the country unless it has a definite purpose before it."

"I realize personally, my fellow-citizens, the peculiar significance of the flag of the United States at this time because there was a day not many years ago, when, although I thought I knew what the flag stood for, it had not penetrated my whole consciousness as it has now. If you could have gone with me through the sware of the last two years, and could have felt the subtle impact of intrigue and have realized with me that those who have an entrusted authority are trustees not only of the power but of the very spirit and purpose of the United States, you would realize with me the solemnity with which I look upon the symbol of our unity and power."

The president, introduced by Secretary of State Lansing, spoke to a great crowd gathered on the Washington monument grounds, immediately after he had reviewed the Flag day preparedness parade.

The exercises had opened with the holding of a big American flag to the top of the monument, while the audience sang "The Star Spangled Banner," and national guardsmen fired a salute.

Train Kills Two Girls.

While attempting to save her two daughters, five and three years old, from death under the wheels of a rapidly moving freight train, Mrs. Samuel Crush, of Jermyn, near Scranton, Pa., received probably fatal injuries. She is at her home.

Both the girls were killed instantly. The trio was hurled a distance of nearly a hundred feet. The accident happened near the Jermyn station of the Delaware and Hudson railroad as the three were returning from a wedding in a relative's home. The children were walking ahead of the parent and reached the tracks as the mother saw the train approaching. She rushed forward and just had taken both in her arms as the train hit them.

Labor Scarcity Felt.

Many central Pennsylvania towns are suffering from a scarcity of labor of almost all classes.

Building operations are being seriously delayed by the lack of skilled men, as well as by a lack of laborers. Notwithstanding the offer of the highest wages paid in years, there are not enough artisans to meet the demand. Contractors with big jobs on hand are obliged to import men from eastern and southern cities. The Pennsylvania railroad has already brought here two parties of colored men from the south.

German Losses 2,224,585.

Germany up to the end of May had lost 2,824,586 soldiers, of whom 774,412 were killed, according to a British official tabulation of the German casualty lists given out here.

The compilation did not include German losses in naval engagements or in the fighting in the German colonies. The British official statement quotes the German official casualty lists for the month of May as placing the total German losses in killed, prisoners and wounded at 102,507. This number, it is pointed out, brings the German total losses, exclusive of naval and colonial casualties, to 2,924,586.

Arrested for Robbery.

James F. McDonald, also known as "James Dillon," alleged to be James F. Dinwoodie, wanted on the charge of robbing a bank messenger of $16,000 in Houston, Pa., on April 7, 1916, was arrested in Montreal.

He had been trailed through Canada by private detectives, and was taken as he alighted from a train. McDonald will be held until Houston police arrive to try to identify him as Dinwoodie.

Thomas H. Talbot, convicted of complicity in the robbery has been sent to the penitentiary in Pennsylvania for ten years.

Powder Truck Kills Boy.

Joseph Ham, nine-year-old son of Francis Ham, of Pocky's, near Scranton, Pa., was struck by a Dupont Powder company motor truck near his home and killed. The boy and companion were standing near the curb watching the truck approach when it skidded, crushing young Ham against a telegraph pole. He died in a few minutes.

Would Hold Judges on Bench.

A constitutional amendment to disqualify federal judges from holding any elective office for at least two years after leaving the bench was introduced by Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado. Two weeks ago he made a speech in the senate deprecating the efforts to nominate Justice Hughes as a presidential candidate.

Asks $3750 for Finger.

Just $3750 per finger was demanded of the Pennsylvania Railroad company by George E. Fornwalt, a former employee, in an action for damages filed in Harrisburg, Pa. Fornwalt says two of his fingers were crushed at No. 2 roundhouse while he was oiling a drill press on June 14, 1914, and he wants $7500 damages.

$50,000,000 Loan for Russia.

Official announcement was made by the National City bank in New York of the closing of a loan of $50,000,000 to the Russian government by a banking group consisting of the National City bank, the Guaranty Trust company, J. P. Morgan & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co. and Lee, Higginson & Co.
